

Little Debbie, who's a perfect doll, is very much the focus of attention of Dorothy Collins and her husband, bandleader Raymond Scott.

Dotty and Ray had second honeymoon in Europe recently, tossed coin in Rome's Fountain of Trevi, said to insure return. Now, they can!

Planning a New future

She has plenty of chances to make a fortune—but Dorothy Collins will take her time in making a decision. Her family comes first!

Since Dorothy Collins and her musical director husband, Raymond Scott, exited "Your Hit Parade" along with other members of the cast, everyone is wondering what is ahead for the pretty blonde songstress. All sorts of offers, of course, have been pouring in. If she chose, Dotty could make a fortune just doing commercials! And the ex-Hit Paraders, as a group, are being lured with enough offers to tour the country to keep them busy for the next several years! However, since all received four months' severance pay—Dotty's to the tune of $2500 a week!—they can well afford to take their time in deciding. But a few things about Dotty's future can be stated quite definitely. Although some of those commercial offers may be just too good to turn down, she's too talented to limit herself to that kind of work entirely, but she'll make many top record hits and guest on TV regularly. As for touring, that's out, too—if it will take her away from home and daughter Debbie too much. In fact, two things are certain: Whatever job Dotty accepts will be the one that gives her the most time to be with her family—and working with her husband will get priority! Though Dotty and Ray both feel that the change is for the best, they'll always remember "Your Hit Parade," and will mark time spent with it.
