

DOROTHY

STEPS OUT

D

Don't look now (OK, go ahead and look, if you want to!), but Dorothy Collins has taken the plunge. After seven years spent, as she puts it, "buttoned all the way up to the chin" on Your Hit Parade, Dorothy now has unbuttoned a bit.

Why?

"I want to broaden my appeal," says Dorothy.

Dorothy won't be singing on Your Hit Parade this fall. (The sponsor picked a new cast at the end of last season.) She's branched out to such places as Las Vegas, singing songs like "Love for Sale." And, after all, a girl can't sing "Love for Sale" in a turtle-neck sweater or a blouse with an under-the-chin string tie.

In the fall, Dorothy hopes to return to TV as a comedienne or a dramatic actress as well as a singer. In short, she's a brand new Dorothy Collins, as this exclusive glamor photo proves.

Demure Dorothy on Hit Parade (above). She's staking her future on 'new look.'
